An Empirical Study on Investment Preference of Working Women in Mumbai City

*Dr. Poonam Kakkad

 Ms. Dimple Joshi

Abstract

Women in India are now actively participating in all activities such as education, politics, media, science and technology and becoming financial independent. With a changing scenario, women has started actively participating in investing their surplus money, though it all depends upon the various parameters such as degree of their risk taking capability, influence of family members and friends and the dare to get exposed to modern and innovative investment avenues. The research study is focused on the analysis of investment preference of working women . With that the research determines Women's awareness about different avenue and the factors affect their investment decision.

Keywords- Indian working women, investment avenues, investment awareness.

Introduction

In India, traditionally men have been the bread winners where as women typically ran the household and saved for the rainy days. This was the scenario, till women started working and took the command of financial matters. Today holds the key to happiness; hence women should plan their finances and investment well. Women have to save on a regular basis and smallest of the surplus income they like to invest prudently. The role of women has changed from "Savers to Investors". Most of the working rural women have regular income because they work on the basis of wages. Savings are seen as insurance against foreseeable future difficulties which are completely unpredictable. Therefore women investors insure themselves against future risks by saving in the form of various investments such as deposits, gold, lands, and herds or by hoarding money.

The status and role of women is vacillating all over the world. Women's stepping out of the confines of the households multiplied their roles and responsibilities. They have to shoulders their domestic responsibilities as well as say themselves in the professional arena. But the balance between the two fronts is guileful exercise.

Consumer Preference for e Payments – A Way For Sustainable Development in Commerce

Dr. Poonam Kakkad

Assistant Prof at Nirmala Memorial Foundation College of Commerce and Science

Rupañi Ekbote

TYBMS student at Nirmala Memorial Foundation College of Commerce and Science

ABSTRACT

The present paper studies the preferred mode of payment of consumers at retail outlets. Data was collected from 100 respondents through survey method. Structured questionnaire was used to collect data. The findings of the study depicts that maximum of the consumers used cash as the mode of payments at retail outlets. The hypothesis test proved that there is no significant difference between gender and preference on mode for making payment. The findings further showed that there is no significant difference between gender and reason for not using mobile phones.

Keywords – mode of payment, reason for non use of mobile app for retail payments.

INTRODUCTION

The way that a buyer chooses to compensate the seller of a good or service that is also acceptable to the seller. Typical payment methods used in a modern business context include cash, checks, credit or debit cards, money orders, bank transfers and online payment services.

US studies show that in 2018, U.S. consumers made 72 payments per month on average, not a significant change from 2017. As in 2017, the most frequently used payment instruments were debit cards (34 percent of all transactions), cash (24 percent), and credit cards (23 percent). Over the 11 years of the survey, debit, cash, and credit have consistently been the most popular ways to pay. For the first time in 2018, debit cards replaced cash as the payment instrument used most frequently for in-person purchases. The above study induced the researcher to study the preference of Indian consumers for mode of Payment at retail outlets.

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

George (1995), "The card majors lead the way" shows that VISA and Master Card play a major role in any international payment system. Both VISA and Master Card act also as franchisers, lending their names to member banks' card and acting as guarantor of payment to merchants willing to accept the cards. For this and for handling transactions, VISA and Master card charge a fee which varies from country to country, but is approximately 3 cents (90 paisa) per transaction. They are card clearing agencies. VISA and Master card each have nearly 22000 banks all over the world as their members and handle several million transactions each day. This gives them a transaction handling capability unmatched by any individual bank. They are not credit card companies but function on the line to provide a global network that allows authorization, clearing and settlement of card transactions, both of credit and debit cards.

Natarajan and Manohar (1993) "Credit Cards—an Analysis". A study has been attempted to know that to what extent the credit cards are utilized by the cardholders and the factors influencing the utilization of credit cards. The study is confined to cards issued by the Canara Bank. A random sampling technique is used to collect the data. Ten components i.e. numbers of purchases, shops, percentage of purchases, place, frequency, type of product, type of services, cash withdrawal facilities, add on facility, insurance schemes are identified and used for the measurement

Radhakrishana (1996) study on "DEBIT CARDS" shows that the debit cards also have found wide acceptability than credit cards because of assurance of payments to retailers, switching of cardholders to debit card because of using interest free period to avoid high interest cost, annual charges as compared to debit cards etc. The study shows that the growth of service industry in the country, electronic fund transfer, point of services offer a large potential for banks to cutting down cost associated with the

A skit performance on Humanist Movement - II

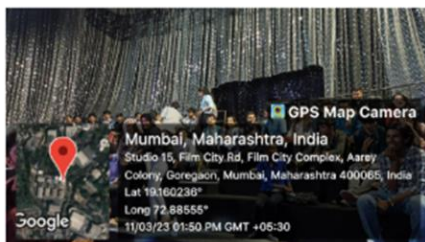

A skit performance on HUMANIST MOVEMENT-II

The NSS Unit of NIRMALA MEMORIAL FOUNDATION COLLEGE, went to Kandivli station to perform a small skit of 15 min on HUMANIST MOVEMENT. The volunteers selected for skit prepared that skit for hours. Their aim is not a patched up thing but a union of hearts based upon a definite recognition of the indubitable proposition that Swaraj for India must be an impossible dream without an indissoluble union between the Hindus and Muslims of India. It must not be a mere truce. It cannot be based upon mutual fear. It must be a partnership between equals, each respecting the religion of the other. So the story line was like a Hindu family and a Muslim family fighting by pointing out each other's flaws. A community which follows both Hindu and Muslim comes in picture and makes them realise their mistake by saying " ना हिन्दू बनो ना मुसलमान बनो, पहले एक अच्छा इंसान बनो " It says humanity comes first. Volunteers were also shouting out slogans. And that skit was performed 3 times, 2 times on Kandivli West station and 1 time on Kandivli West station.

Field Trip to Bollywood Park Film City

The Department of BAMMC had organised a Field Trip to Bollywood Park Film City for students of TYBAMMC on Saturday, 11th March, 2023.

The field visit was organised to give the learners practical insights into the field of media and how the entertainment world functions in diverse capacities. The learners were taken to the venue, located in Film City in Mumbai's Goregaon, from the college. They were shown the Film City premises, prime shooting locations, studios and other important sites by the officials. Apart from the captivating insights into the glitz and glamour of the entertainment industry, the learners also learnt about various behind-the-scene technicalities such as dubbing, special effects, production and post-production work. The learners also enjoyed a visit to the park's own wax museum. They were also given a chance to try their hand at karaoke recording, and were even treated to a DJ party by the authorities.

Outcome: TYBAMMC learners got timely insights into various aspects of working of the media industry in this visit. They also got a feel of being a part of this industry, which is a good preparatory ground for future media professionals. 51 learners went for the field visit.
