The aim of this debate is to motivate students to express their opinion about the arising issue of 'Environment Vs Development', an extremely important topic that today we humans need to focus on. In an attempt to make the world a more comfortable place to live we are ignoring the importance of the existence of a healthy natural environment. In this race of becoming the most developed country we are giving very little importance to the protection, rather conservation of the non renewable environment. Along with this, in this 21st century no economy can afford to not be a part of the race and reserve its position in the list of the top countries of the world. So what is to be more focused on? Environment or Development.

We would love to hear what Gen Z has to say on this. So come forward and utilize this opportunity to express yourself.
